

Table V

6 INDIVIDUAL LINES OF THE HEXAGRAMS
The six individual lines of hexagrams represent six steps or "phases" in a process. In the I Ching, the first hexagram is Qian (Heaven, the Creative Principle, pure yang). The phases are presented as the activity of the Dragon. In the first phase, the Dragon is "hidden," like a sprouting seed about to emerge from the soil. In the last phase, the Dragon is "exceeding," that is to say, it is in its final, declining phase. The I Ching is based on the idea events and circumstances in human life are governed by similar phases.		Exceeding (Decay)
		Flying (Blossom)
		Leaping (Maturity)
		Vigilant (Stability)
		Appearing (Growth)
		Hidden (Germination)